Trip with SeaPort a pleasant experience

Published: 03/11/2010

On a recent trip to Boston, my husband and I had the pleasure of flying out of (and back into) El Dorado on SeaPort Airlines. Our trip could not have been easier! We left El Dorado and were in Boston six hours later. The best part of that was that we only had to be at the El Dorado airport 30 minutes prior to our flight, paid no additional baggage fee, and did not have to pay to park our car! For this convenience we paid a total of $196 ($49 per person per one way flight). When we landed in Memphis, the Sea Port folks drove us to the main terminal and told us to call them when we got back to Memphis and they would pick us up. To fly on to Boston, we then had to go through security in Memphis and pay the checked baggage fees for Delta, but that process was very efficient and went quickly. Flying through Memphis may not offer as many flying options as flying through Dallas, but we were able to get direct flights to and from Boston at reasonable rates. It was a lovely travel experience and I encourage El Dorado travelers to give it a try. We will definitely use SeaPort again.
